

Letter from Clemens Winkler to Georg Bredig, February 1901

Winkler, Clemons. "Letter from Clemens Winkler to Georg Bredig, February 1901," February 19, 1901. Papers of Georg and Max Bredig, Box 2, Folder 70. Science History Institute. Philadelphia.

<https://digital.sciencehistory.org/works/lrar24h>.

Courtesy of the Science History Institute, prepared December 14, 2024 18:23 UTC

Translated by Jocelyn R. McDaniel

English Translation

Image 1

Freiburg, February 19, 1901

Dear Colleague,

I have received your treatise on "Inorganic Ferments" and it has intrigued me. This is really splendid work that you have offered to the world. It is the type of proper research work that is not often found nowadays and is dedicated to an appealing and captivating subject! From the bottom of my heart,

Image 2

(page 2)

I congratulate you on the extraordinary success of your research activity, and I am confident that continuing it will lead you to gain further remarkable insights.

I am especially honored that you were so kind to send me your work. I thank you most sincerely for this gift, which is extremely valuable to me, and send you my best regards.

Sincerely,
C. Winkler